It has been simplified for gardening associations to connect plots to power supply

By its resolution, the government simplified the connection of residents of garden non-profit partnerships to the energy supply, the website of the Cabinet of Ministers reports.

Now, to conclude a direct contract, a resident of a garden non-profit partnership only needs to submit an application to the energy sales organization and receive a free comprehensive service in the "one contact" mode. Having received the application, the organization creates a personal account for the gardener on its website. It contains a draft energy supply agreement and information about the approval for operation of an electricity meter that a citizen already owns.
