

ELECTRIC POWER INDUSTRY NEWS

The Russian government has approved mechanisms for targeted investment in the electric power industry

The regulations developed by the FAS Russia were adopted in order to implement the principle of tariffs in exchange for investments and prioritize investment programs in the electric power industry. The adopted provisions will allow setting long-term tariffs based on their economic feasibility, including using the "reference" principle, and also reduce the differentiation of operating expenses of grid organizations. In addition, the approved provisions will create an effective mechanism for investing in the electric grid infrastructure and increase the level of modernization.
