Babakov: we need a new national project for development of the electric power industry

To ensure the sovereign development of Russia, a plan for a new technological breakthrough, a national project for development of the electric power industry (GOELRO-2), is needed, said Deputy Speaker of the State Duma Alexander Babakov. During his speech, Deputy Speaker noted that the foundation of the entire Soviet industrialization is built on the State Commission for the Electrification of Russia (GOELRO), which was established 105 years ago.
