Rosseti approved a new innovative development program

The Board of Directors of the Rosseti Group approved an updated innovative development program for 2024-2029 with an outlook until 2035. The document is based on the task of adapting business processes to current conditions through advanced technologies, the company said in a statement.

"The basic principle of the program is to abandon point projects in favour of comprehensive solutions. It contains measures aimed at digital transformation of the grid, robotics, the use of artificial intelligence, and the development of customer services. It is planned to develop and implement automated design and process control systems, and create electronic standards," the company said.
